Property Description

Arroyo Escondido is a contemporary home designed to harmonize with its tropical surroundings, offering a seamless blend of modern architecture and natural beauty. Elevated above the landscape, it appears to float within the forest, ensuring minimal disruption to the environment while embracing the essence of the outdoors. Its design prioritizes adaptability, with movable walls and open layouts that invite natural light, airflow, and the tranquil sounds of nature into every space. This thoughtful integration allows residents to connect deeply with the surrounding environment while maintaining privacy and comfort. One of the standout features of Arroyo Escondido is the seasonal river that runs through the property, turning a design challenge into a unique and breathtaking highlight. A structural glass window in the floor offers a view of the flowing water below, seamlessly connecting the home to the natural landscape.
